Graphical Styles: Styles have become first-class citizens. Use styles like a design engineer, applying them to existing drawing objects in a WYSIWYG manner. With a single click, you can merge multiple layers, print, save, and apply to a DWG document (video: 1:00 min.). New Dimension Styles: Dimension styles are new. Create styles to align or space objects along arbitrary dimensions. Drag dimension objects into the proper location in a graphic style. Automatically snap the dimensions to reference points (video: 1:00 min.). New Dimension Styles: Dimension styles are new. Create styles to align or space objects along arbitrary dimensions. Drag dimension objects into the proper location in a graphic style. Automatically snap the dimensions to reference points (video: 1:00 min.). The AutoCAD default color palette now comes with many more colors (256 instead of 32). Select the desired color and its name is entered in the Color field. AutoCAD now displays the physical size of a selected object in the Info bar of the Properties palette. In 3D drawing, the length, width, and height are automatically calculated. Text boxes can now be used as an extension to standard text. The text box keeps all properties of the original text. Click the “+” icon to the right of the text box to open the Text Box Properties palette. Line Color Labels: Adding color labels to your lines is easier than ever. You can now drag a color from the Color box of the tool palette and drop it on your line. When you release your mouse, it’s automatically associated with the line (video: 1:00 min.). Dynamic Text and Legend Styles: Update a text style in your drawing based on the values of an annotation. The Dynamic Text Style window gives you the ability to customize a dynamic text style and apply it to multiple annotations. (video: 1:30 min.). Dynamic Legend Styles: Apply a legend style to multiple drawings without repeating the legend information in each drawing. The Dynamic Legend Style window gives you the ability to customize a dynamic legend style and apply it to multiple drawings. (video: 1:30 min.). You can now hide all legend keys for a shape. You can choose from an entire series of keystroke options, or even create a custom shortcut
