A free and optional texture package that will greatly increase the resolution of all the weapons, weapons skins and character textures. If you are already playing Insurgency: Sandstorm and you do not own High Resolution Texture Pack you can still download and install this DLC. Recommended Mods: If you want to keep using your current texture files, just download Curse of the Unforgiven - Sandstorm Advanced Texture Mod, install it in your mod folder, then in the launcher menu, go to the Display Settings and enable the Advanced Texture option. Also, if you don't have the Curse of the Unforgiven file to begin with, you can download and install it here: Uninstallation instructions: From the launcher menu, go to the Mod Manager and uninstall Advanced Texture PackDoodle Explosion Doodle Explosion is a block making software for drawing and coloring digital imagery which can be uploaded from various resources, ranging from websites, mobile applications, as well as regular photo capturing. In a typical process, the photo is loaded in the application and the user can select a color scheme. The chosen colors, or 'doodles', are then "rolled out" across the image, producing an explosion of color. A Doodle Explosion can be printed or printed using the camera, depending on the software and available options. Doodle Explosion is the only software product in the world that enables users to upload their own user generated content and create their own user generated doodles. The application uses a proprietary (patent pending) technology called 'Color Lens'. This technology allows the user to use their smartphone camera and upload their own user generated content to produce a custom doodle. Influences on doodle explosion and generation American artist Mark Rothko was a known (late) supporter of doodling. In 2002, Dominique Lévy, a well-known French artist, also made an attempt at modeling a creative doodling machine. The Doodle Explosion is a modification of the original concept by Lévy. Game Trailer Roller Coaster - Orlando Theme Park VR Game Trailer We are delighted to announce that we have entered into a partnership with the leading mobile VR tourism brand around the world to tell the story of the fantasy experience you'll get from a ride on a real coaster. Roller Coaster - Orlando Theme Park VR is coming to Oculus Quest and Gear VR with partnered headsets before the end of the year. This is a real Universal Studios Resort experience and the most dynamic rollercoaster scene yet created for VR. Watch the trailer Watch this animated VR trailer and see how the virtual reality adventure comes to life. Our Director of Creative, Adam Robinson, has more to say in this interview: Tell us more about the real theme park experience that this VR adventure brings. In Roller Coaster - Orlando Theme Park VR we place you in the role of the young girl who joins the characters of the ride to see the world. There are fantastical levels of sensory immersion you'll experience together as we walk you through the narrative of the ride and sit with you through all the sights and incredible sensations of a real film. And just as good as watching the real ride in a live theatre you and your virtual friends in the headset will experience first-hand the incredible visuals and audio, the incredible sensations of rushing down the track, the feeling of sitting safely in your restraints, all of it is recreated for VR. As you journey through the story we are telling, interact with the world and share the ride with friends and play together, you will at times be transported from level to level in your virtual reality rollercoaster and experience different levels of immersive VR based on your unique hardware setup. It's pretty amazing! Our Chief Creative Officer, David Huston, and the whole creative team have been working really hard to bring Roller Coaster to life. Here's what he had to say about it: How was this collaboration developed? Our founder, Adam, had been talking to our distribution partner at Universal about a possible collaboration. About two years ago we conceived the idea for a virtual rollercoaster where all of the players would journey together in one shared experience, and we began very early on investigating how to actually put this into the movies. It is the ultimate geek fantasy to participate in an attraction together in VR and be able to share that experience with fellow players in VR. Imagine: as you watch a real live rollercoaster

Detective Butler: Maiden Voyage is a visual novel murder mystery set in the 1920s. Featuring 7 main characters and 3 cameo characters, the story follows the actions of Detective Butler and his partner, Madeline, as they investigate the death of a young lady. Indian and American brig Concord were captured by the Confederates on the 6th April 1861. The Concord crew were put in prison camp in Richmond until the fall of the city. After the relief of Charleston the Prisoners on both sides were exchanged and the prisoners returned to Norfolk. The story of the capture of the 2 ships was widely circulated and the ordeal of the prisoners described. I haven't heard of any other museums depicting this story, but the Concord Museum in Virginia preserves a large collection of accounts and other memorabilia from the War of the Rebellion. We know that they traded with the Native Americans, but the memory of the capture itself must have been vivid in the region. Last month I was attending a local History Day and one of the participants mentioned that she learned about the capture when she was in Kindergarten.  $3^3 + 3^g + g^2$ . Let  $t(o) = 0$ .
