Update. This is a very interesting question. Since we know the IP of the target machine, the task is very easy. We can use nslookup command on the Linux/Unix machine to resolve the IP of the host machine. First we download nslookup client from the Web Now the command is nslookup www.stackoverflow.com It will give the IP of the machine www.stackoverflow.com. Now we can change the IP address for the target machine and execute the command again. For windows machine. Download the command from the Web. Now the command is C:\>nslookup www.stackoverflow.com Default Server: iana.org. Address: 205.188.132.1 Non-authoritative answer: Name: www.stackoverflow.com Address: 66.51.233.106 We can change the IP address of the target machine for the nslookup command also. If this IP does not work. We can use Google DNS If you use the Google DNS, we can execute the command in the command prompt. Q: Programmatically get / set the value of properties on a JavaScript object Is it possible to get/set values in a JavaScript object dynamically, for example, an object properties can have an array of values and I can retrieve and set the values in this array dynamically? var test = {}; test.one = ['one', 'two', 'three']; test.two = ['four', 'five']; // or in multiple lines test['one'] = ['one', 'two', 'three']; test['two'] = ['four', 'five']; // we can get the values console.log(test.one, test.two); // we can update test.one = ['one', 'two', 'three', 'four']; console.log(test.one, test.two); // we can delete delete test.one; console.log(test.one, test.two); // we can update test.two = '123'; console.log(test.one, test.two); A:
