Saving your work Before you begin work, save your work as a Photoshop document. When you're ready to share your document with someone, you have to save it as a file with a.psd extension, which stands for _Photoshop document._ If you save your work in a different format, it's easier to work with the files later, but you can't have more than one document open in Photoshop at a time. Saving the document in the Photoshop format ensures that the image is editable as you work. The New Document dialog box is shown in Figure 1-4. FIGURE 1-4: Save a copy of your work so that you can continue with your projects.

Q: UILabel null after mutating Core Data Swift I am using Core Data to store and retrieve a string, say "Hello". I want to store some other data, say the name of the person for the Hello string. After that I want to change the Hello string to "Goodbye" and then retrieve the name for the Goodbye string. However, for some reason, when I try to access the name for the Goodbye string it returns null. In my Core Data model I have two entities "Person" and "Greeting" with a many to many relationship with the person entity being "controller" with the greeting entity "controller". I have managed to get the controller entity, which has the name, for the Hello string, however I can not seem to retrieve the name for the Goodbye string. Here is what I have written: let greetingController: NSManagedObject = NSManagedObjectContext.mainContext().objectWithID(NSManagedObjectID(""))! let personController = greetingController.relationshipWithType(kInverseType, forProperty: "controller") let greeting = personController.valueForKeyPath("controller.name") println("\(greeting.valueForKeyPath(String(format:"%@.name"))!)") greeting

Q: netbeans php plugin is not displayed When I select "Load Project" in Netbeans 7.0 and then select a php project(zf2), it says "Loading Project Successfully" but it never gets to the php plugin and therefore there is no php code to be edited/viewed. I have installed the addon extension just in case it could have been a problem. Any other reasons why its not displayed? A: It was a stupid mistake. The php plugin was configured to not auto-load with php projects, but I had it enabled by default. Tumor cells sense the presence of the immune system and limit their multiplication and dissemination. T cells and other immune cells recognize immunogenic antigens bound by major histocompatibility complexes (MHC) and destroy them. However, tumors can escape immune surveillance by altering the antigen-antibody complexes presented by MHC molecules. Specifically, they can deplete or down-regulate MHC class I molecules from the surface of tumor cells, or up-regulate or inactivate MHC class II molecules. In this regard, it has been reported that tumor-derived TGF- β suppresses MHC class II expression on antigen-presenting cells (APC) by down-regulating the expression of CIITA, a key regulator of MHC-II expression (Rabinovich, et al., 1994, Cell 76:213–223; Battaglia, et al., 1995, J. Exp. Med. 182:897–908). Several molecules have been identified that bind with high affinity to the TGF- β type II receptor in the absence of ligand. In particular, the dual specificity protein phosphatases, such as SHP-1 and SHP-2, suppress TGF- β signaling by dephosphorylating phosphorylated activin receptor-like kinases, Smads, and other signaling molecules (Krajewski, et al., 2004, Cell 119:1259–1268). In addition, it has been shown that the coreceptor, GARP (GITAM domain receptor protein), does not reduce the affinity of MHC class II molecules for T cell receptors (Nemazee, et al., 2002, Immunity 17:557–566). Since TGF- β signaling affects many aspects of tumor cell biology, an array of molecules that block or deplete TGF-
