This program runs on a server and is connected to a modem. When the program starts it checks if the Internet connection is online. If it is connected it allows a virtual key to unlock the connection and continue working. If it is not connected the key is disabled. If the user tries to connect the connection is blocked. The user interface is designed to be understood by a 4 years old. Thanks to: Download ModemLockDown for free. lock down Getting access to the internet can be very difficult to get if you don't have a reliable access. Whether at your home, or office, you just want to go online without disturbing anyone. At times, we feel the need to go online and check emails, or just look for something on Google. But you might not want other people to have access to this service. For example, if you live in a college, everyone may be doing their assignments while you are trying to study. It is therefore quite possible that you may need to access the internet on your own. Locking your modem is an excellent way of doing this. Using a conventional remote control, it will be possible to turn on and off the modem so that it is only turned on when you want it to be. Also, the modem will be capable of locking itself in case you try to access the internet before the desired time. ModemLockDown will be able to assist you. This is a little program which will run on the server and be able to control your modem. After the program is downloaded, you will be able to control the modem. You will be able to decide what time to have the modem locked. After being locked, you can have the modem rebooted to have access to the internet. You can even select a password which will be required to unlock the modem. This program is quite easy to use. The interface is pretty good. If you are not familiar with this program, you may not be able to operate it. You will be able to do everything on your own. However, it is important to understand that the server is used to control your modem. This is not a very reliable way
