Similar problems exist when reading GPS tags. Some of them don't seem to be stored on photos in the EXIF and the user must activate the "Show GPS Data" option in the Elements options menu. Having that usually doesn't help any and most often it creates errors. I also noticed that there was no problem reading the GPS data gathered from the Fujifilm FinePix X100S, so it's not limited to certain camera models. In addition, the Data Management feature that allows users to tag EXIF data on photos worked very well for some EXIF data but not for some. This is especially true with location data. Also user tagging, where users place tags in the name of the EXIF data, is very user friendly. Clicking on the name of the EXIF tag will allow you to quickly and easily add the tag. First the 'Photography' plan which is $9.99/mo and grants you access to Adobe Photoshop and also Adobe Lightroom which is a program that allows for detailed photo editing. This is a great value considering the second option is $20.99/mo for use of only Photoshop. The third and final option which I think is the best option is the Student and Teacher plan that is $19.99/mo and includes access to every Adobe program available. This is an amazing value because you get access to everything Adobe has to offer. From there you can learn and try new programs that Adobe offers to see what your favorite is.
