Description: Even India has come up with a new technology that has made it possible to work from virtually any place in the world. It is called 'virtual offices.' In the near future, users will be able to buy their own office space on the Internet and work in their own office from any remote location. Such offices are very different from the conventional offices in that no walls are required to separate groups of workers. While doing business, they can sit near each other or even work from different parts of the globe. Virtual offices can also help small businesses to expand by offering convenient office space to clients. In reality, virtual offices are nothing more than the latest 'telephone' that can be accessed through the Internet.

Part of the NationBuilder project to help make #GOV2020 #RAPID.Short- and long-term outcome of non-variceal upper gastrointestinal bleeding. The aim of this study was to assess the outcome of patients with non-variceal upper gastrointestinal bleeding (NVUGIB) in comparison with patients with variceal bleeding. Forty-seven patients with NVUGIB were compared to a control group of patients with variceal bleeding. Multiple logistic regression analysis identified non-variceal bleeding as the only factor predictive for rebleeding (odds ratio 3.81, 95% CI 1.07-13.64, p=0.038).

Survival following non-variceal bleeding was significantly improved when compared with survival after variceal bleeding (40.3% vs. 17.6% at 30 days, 38.6% vs. 3.2% at 3 months, 21.8% vs. 2.4% at 6 months, 39.3% vs. 10.9% at 12 months, 42.6% vs. 8.8% at 24 months, 33.3% vs. 10.3% at 30 months, Venture capital and private equity firms are running out of equity deals to give away as they wait for the Trump administration to roll back policies they view as over-strict. The firms can cash in on gains from selling companies, or use their war chests to fund deals for themselves, but both are being redirected to retaining and expanding operations in the U.S. Private equity firms sold about $10.5 billion of equity deals in 2016, up about 20 percent from the $9.05 billion sold in 2015, according to Thomson Reuters. Venture capital firms have closed $3.7 billion of deals in the first half of 2017, down about 20 percent from the $4.4 billion closed in the comparable period last year. By the end of 2016, private equity firms had $3.7 billion worth of cash and equivalents on hand, nearly two times the $1.8 billion they had in 2008, according to PitchBook. Venture capital firms had nearly $3 billion of cash on hand, up 3.5 percent from the end of 2015. "There's plenty of new money out there to make great deals, but there's less capital than ever out there to make those deals," said David Berridge, chief investment officer of Evercore Capital Partners, a private equity firm. He highlighted the need for investors to retool corporate governance standards for tech startups after significant changes that include the Trump administration's executive order rolling back the Obama administration's rules for securities and hiring practices. The policy is expected to be challenged in court, but would nonetheless
